QUICK WINDUP
PREDICTED
FOR INQUIRY

Washington, June 18—(AP)—The Senate's MacArthur inquiry committee voted unanimously today to hear only four more witnesses and to close the investigation "at the earliest possible date."

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) told a news conference the inquiry may end this week or by the middle of next week at the latest.

The committee decided to call three additional witnesses: Patrick J. Hurley, former Ambassador to China;

Major Gen. Emmet O'Donnell, former commander of the U. S. strategic bombing force in the Far East;

Major Gen. David C. Barr, former commander of the U. S. 7th division in Korea and one-time chief of a U. S. military mission to China.

In addition to these four witnesses, it is possible Gen. Douglas MacArthur may testify again. The committee has invited MacArthur to take the witness chair again if he cares to reply to any of the testimony the committee has heard since the inquiry started May 3.

MacArthur was the first witness to the joint inquiry by the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees into his dismissal and his differences with the Truman Administration over Korean War policy.

Following MacArthur to the stand were Secretary of Defense Marshall, the members of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff, Secretary of State Acheson; Lt. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer, former U. S. commander in China, and Louis Johnson, who was secretary of defense when the Korean War broke out in June of last year.

Russell told reporters the committee has had no word from MacArthur as to whether he wants to testify again.

Today's decision to seek a quick end up of the inquiry was made at a brief closed-door session of the inquiry panel.

Russell said the committee decided not to call presidential adviser W. Averell Harriman as a witness.

Harriman had been tentatively scheduled to testify tomorrow. Russell said Harriman and the committee agreed that his testimony would cover ground already well covered by other witnesses.

Yeggs Get $100,000
Loot Near Bradford

Bradford, June 18—(AP)—Safe crackers blew a safe in the home of two brother garage owners and escaped with loot that may reach $100,000, Police Chief Edward Edmund reported today.

Robbed were Raymond and Paul Yeggs, of Foster Township, McKean county, just outside the city of Bradford. They own a garage in the neighborhood of their home. They could not fix the exact amount of the loss.

Chief Edmund reported the brothers kept large sums of cash in their home to make automobile transactions. The robbed safe was in a room in the cellar of a home the brothers shared.

The robbers jimmied a rear window, forced the lock and then used powder to blast off the combination on the safe door. The chief said the robbery was not the work of amateurs.

The brothers discovered the loss when they went to the safe following the week-end.

Washington, June 18—(AP)—Rep. Gavin (R-Pa.) said today he cannot understand why the United States "continues to resist making a friend and ally of Spain."

This attitude, Gavin said in a speech for the house, doesn't make sense because Spain would be a valued friend for the protection of Europe, Africa and the entrance to the Mediterranean.

"Certainly," he said, Spain should be taken into the proposed military defense assistance program, the ECA (Economic Cooperation Administration) and the point four program. They should be a logical and valuable ally."

And, he said, if Spain can't be brought into the North Atlantic pact, "I urge the alternative of a separate armament agreement between the United States and Spain similar to that which we now enjoy with Portugal."

In fact, he said, the agreement between the United States and Portugal is "quite useless unless Spain is included as a partner."

Gavin, who has urged repeatedly that Spain be included in plans to protect Europe against Communism, asked "what kind of business is this?" to help Tito's Yugoslavians and not Spain.

Senate Leader Suggests Plan
For Breaking Deadlock Over
State Income Tax Legislation

Harrisburg, June 18—(AP)—A top senate leader said today the general assembly could break its income tax deadlock by earmarking the levy specifically for education and for paying off the soldiers' bonus.

Sen. Paul L. Wagner (R-Schuylkill) proposed this as the legislative returned after a week's recess.

"Putting a tag line on the income tax ought to meet with approval by everyone concerned about the tax," Wagner asserted.

His was the latest solution suggested for ending the tax dilemma which has sharply split Republican ranks in the state senate.

Opposing Republican senate factions held a marathon 27-hour conference here over the weekend in an unsuccessful effort to reconcile their tax differences. A new try was scheduled for today.

The stalemate developed in April after the house passed Gov. John S. Fine's proposed $119,000,000 flat income tax of one-half of one per cent by a narrow margin after a second vote.

The measure immediately ran into a roadblock in the senate when 11 of the 30 senate Republicans—enough to kill it—took a stand against the measure.

Fine insists the income levy is necessary to fill a multi-million dollar gap in his $1,200,000,000 budget for the next two years. Opponents of the tax declare, however, that pruning of the budget would eliminate any need for the tax.

Sen. Samuel B. Wolfe (R-Union) came up over the weekend with another idea for ending the deadlock. He suggested a flat five per cent cut in Fine's budget. He said this would save between 40 to 50 million dollars and eliminate the need for more taxes.

Complicating the state's finances is a $46,000,000 teacher salary increase bill passed by the house and now before the senate for study. No provision is made in Fine's budget for this extra cost.

Wagner said his proposal to earmark the income tax for education and the soldiers' bonus, would solve two of the state's biggest expenditures.

The $415,000,000 bonus paid to Pennsylvania veterans of World War Two is costing the state about $60,000,000 every two years to amortize, while education accounts for almost one-third of the total state budget or an outlay of about $230,000,000 over a like period.

The weekend tax-budget conference was called with the hope that it would produce an agreement on finances, permitting the legislature to adjourn by June 30. Failure to solve the tax dilemma has raised the prospect of a summer-long session, setting a new record in length. The 1941 assembly adjourned July 15, establishing itself as the second longest session since 1842.

Following the banquet nearly 75 couples attended the dance, with Emmie Emerson and his orchestra furnishing the music.

Warren firemen were called at 11 a. m. today to the Clarence Johnson home, 1210 Madison avenue, where they found a motor burning in a washing machine. There was no damage, except to the motor.

Arrests and investigations, as well as the usual number of routine nuisance calls, kept city police busy over the weekend.

John Edward Larson, 118 N. Irvine street, was arrested by police at 4:45 p. m. Saturday and charged with drunken driving. He was arraigned before Justice Greenlund Sunday morning and posted a $1000 bond for a hearing Friday afternoon at four o'clock.

Emery R. Johns, 6 1/2 Clark street, was arrested Saturday evening at 8:20 o'clock and charged with operating a motor vehicle during a period of license revocation. He was held for court by Justice Greenlund when arraigned Sunday morning.

Three drunks were also arraigned Sunday morning, and one case of disorderly conduct, arrests being made Saturday.

Police and firemen were called to Lexington avenue Friday evening about 8:45 o'clock when a large bonfire was burning near the Mead Machine Shop. Police said two six-year-old youngsters started the blaze, and they received a good scolding.

Police also drew up a peace treaty between two ladies who were doing battle in Hickory street; and assisted another lady to get into her fourth street home after locking herself out.

A survey made by police early Saturday morning reported that the Pennsylvania avenue crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad at the station was tied up for 37 minutes by a train parked across the street. The time was from 1:35 a. m. to 2:12 a. m.

Saturday, a painter working on a Crecent Park home reported finding a 22 calibre bullet embedded in the home. Police decided that the projectile was fired from the direction of the cemetery.

A lady driver, who damaged a bicycle parked at Conewango and Pennsylvania avenues on Saturday, paid for damages to the wheel.

Three traffic arrests, all for too fast for conditions, were made over the weekend. One motorist was arrested on Saturday, one on Sunday, and the third early this morning.

Drive to Outlaw
Sunday Sports In State Is Launched

Harrisburg, June 18—(AP)—A campaign to outlaw Sunday baseball and football in Pennsylvania was underway today by state church and reform groups.

The Rev. Melvin M. Forney, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, spearheading the drive, said the move to ban the two sports on Sunday will be made in the 1953 legislature.

Groundwork for the action is taking place now through "numerous conferences" around the state, Forney stated.

He made the disclosure in attacking legislation now before the general assembly to permit Sunday hockey and basketball. Both are now prohibited under present law.

Forney said the proponents of Sunday basketball and hockey are claiming the two sports are being discriminated against since Sunday baseball and football are permitted.

"The church people feel that the laws of the state do indeed show discrimination," Forney asserted, but added:

"That discrimination is against the Christian ideals of our state and the sacredness of the Lord's Day in that professional sports, moving pictures, etc., are permitted at all."

Trenton, N. J., June 18—(AP)—The New Jersey supreme court today knocked out the state law setting minimum prices on cigarettes. The court also declared unconstitutional parts of the state law imposing a three-cent tax on each pack of cigarettes. However, state officials said they believed the decision did not affect the tax itself.

Arrests and investigations, as well as the usual number of routine nuisance calls, kept city police busy over the weekend.

Reappearance of Red Planes
Believed to Indicate Enemy
Preparing Ground Offensive

Tokyo, June 18—(AP)—Outnumbered American Sabre jets destroyed six Russian-type jets and damaged eight others in two big air battles over Korea yesterday and today.

A total of 118 planes were involved in the sudden revival of jet warfare.

Sixteen Red jets made a third stab at four Sabre jets Monday afternoon—but kept at a safe distance. They fired twice on the F-86s, then streaked back across the Yalu river into the safety of Manchuria.

All American planes returned safely, far east air forces said. Reappearance of the Red jets in force coincided with indications the Chinese may be preparing a new ground offensive.

Red troops suddenly appeared in territory they had previously deserted. Replacements steadily filtered down from the north for holding troops all along the front.

Fierce Red defenses checked Allied moves in the center of the line. But Allied patrols Monday drove more than three miles into Red territory in the west and gained slightly over a mile in the east.

Two U. N. armored tank patrols rumbled up the west side of the former Red "Iron Triangle," shooting at small Communist bands on the way. Another armored patrol trying to push up the east side from Kumhwa was forced back by road mines and mortar fire.

Small fights broke out all along the west and center. A briefing officer said Reds were still fighting a delaying type of warfare.

In the east, North Korean machinegun fire three times drove U. N. troops back from a commanding ridge line, but Reds suddenly abandoned another ridge for which they had fought fiercely Sunday.

Fighter-bombers raked every strong point as the Fifth Air Force mounted 490 sorties in daylight Monday, including the jet flights along the northwestern border.

F-86 pilots reported the Red jets showed more fight than ever before in the two air battles. The fight was gone in the later, long-distance passes. The two jet battles flared suddenly after a long lull.

Monday's was the bigger and took the heaviest toll of the Reds—five destroyed and two damaged. It was the biggest bag in two (Turn to Page Eight)

Belmar Hitchcock, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hitchcock, of near Lander, was reported in fair condition at WCA Hospital in Jamestown today where he is undergoing treatment for injuries suffered Saturday when he was bucked off a horse.

The accident occurred at the Hitchcock farm. Belmar was taken to the Jamestown hospital in the Schoonover ambulance.

Hospital authorities said the youth is suffering from a possible concussion and fracture of the skull.

Meadville, June 18—(AP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for W. A. Carlson, 61, superintendent of motive power for the Erie Railroad. Carlson was stationed in Meadville 14 years before being transferred to the general offices of the Erie at Cleveland a few years ago. He died of a heart attack while playing golf on a Cleveland course Saturday.

The community campaign to raise $1000 to send the Warren Boy Choir to Philadelphia for a television show appearance next Saturday was over the top today.

The final "big push" which sent the onations collected by the Times-Mirror and Radio Station WNAE past the $1000 mark was a donation of $106.56, representing a collection taken among employees of the East Street and Lexington Avenue plants of the Sylvania Electric Products Co.

This amount, added to numerous other donations turned in over the weekend boosted the fund to $1102.77.

Thirty-seven members of the Boy Choir, accompanied by their director, Byron Swanson, will make the Philadelphia trip by chartered bus. They will be accompanied by at least three other adults. In the Quaker City, the Choir will be guests of the Paul Whiteman Teen-TV show, a "live" broadcast scheduled for next Saturday night at 8 o'clock. Rehearsals for the show will be held in Philadelphia Saturday afternoon, starting at 1 p. m.

Celebration Notes

The general committee, sponsored by the Jaycees, is meeting twice weekly, the first session this week being Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. It is imperative that all workers be on hand.

Ben Kinnear, Jack Barr, Milt Dahler, Harry Schmidt and Bob Johnson met at the Legion Home Sunday to discuss tentative orders for the parade which will consist of at least 25 divisions. They report that clubs are needed to provide aides, guides and chiefs of staff. Don't wait to be asked. Who'll volunteer? Call Fran Buchanan, Clarendon Heights.

Arch Bristow, well-known Warren county columnist, whose contributions appear daily in the Erie Dispatch Herald, Clare Swisher, another Erie writer, and Cliff Taylor, Erie Times writer, will judge the queen contest on June 30th at the municipal building. This should be interesting since all the gentlemen mentioned are participating in the beard-growing contest being staged in connection with the Erie Centennial to be presented in August.

Remarks made during the impromptu talks at the dinner-dance at the Marconi Outing Club Saturday evening show complete co-operation among Jaycees to make this the biggest and best Fourth of July celebration yet attempted by the progressive organization.

The large number of entries received over the weekend indicates that interest in the queen contest is peeping up. An unusually large number of valuable and worthwhile gifts offered by Warren merchants will be distributed to the winners of the contest, the first of the five-day affair. Incidentally, the committee with Joe Bunk as chairman, is doing a bang-up job in this department.

Bernie Bloom and John Smith have the Kids Koaster Klassic all set up for one of the top-tight affairs during the celebration.

The high stage of the river practically assures some exciting boat races as one of the highlights of the affair. The committee in charge is headed by Ross Ruhlman, Jr., who says there should be at least thirty boats entered. A number of boats skimming over the water attracted much attention Sunday afternoon and evening.

Float entries are coming in discouragingly slow but those in charge are hopeful that interest in this department will speed up and by the end of the month many fine displays will be under construction.

Ten Emergencies Are Treated at Warren General

Ten emergency cases required treatment at Warren General Hospital over the weekend with one patient being admitted for further observation.

Tommy King, 4, 201 Russell street, was admitted after treatment for injuries sustained when he fell from a moving car near Starbrick yesterday evening about six o'clock. He sustained abrasions of the left side of the head and face, lacerations of the left leg, brush burns of the right elbow and left hand. His condition is listed as good.

Also yesterday, W. L. Staple, Clarendon, was treated for a laceration of the right side of the head, sustained when he fell on steps at home. Arvid Carlson, 16, of Sugar Grove, was treated for first degree burns of the right arm, sustained when he was sprayed with boiling water from an over-heated auto radiator. Jeffrey Marti, 2, 205 Parker street, was treated for a small laceration of the forehead, sustained when he fell while playing in a sand box at his home. Donald T. Swanson, 5, 444 Prospect street, was treated for loss of the nail of the third finger of his left hand, caught in a lawnmower at his home.

On Saturday, Mrs. Carl W. Anderson, Warren RD 3, sustained neck injuries when struck by a car on South street. She was x-rayed and discharged after application of a cervical collar. Mrs. Fannie Sheldon, Kinzua, suffered a sprain of the left ankle in a fall at home. She was discharged after strappings were applied. H. G. Eaton, Gibson Nursing Home, was treated for a scalp laceration, sustained in a fall in the bathroom. Friday afternoon, C. W. Hunter, of McKeesport, employed on the building project at Warren State Hospital, was treated for first and second degree burns of the right forearm, sustained when he was splashed with hot pitch. He was discharged after treatment. Paula Cohan, 8, 116 Oak street, sustained a small laceration of the head when she fell from her bicycle. She was discharged after suturing.

Four Accidents Are Investigated By The State Police

State police report four accidents over the weekend and two on Saturday and two yesterday. No one was injured in any of the crashes.

At 10:00 a. m. Saturday, a car operated by Robert M. Williams, of Jamestown, ran off the road near Sugar Grove and clipped off a power pole owned by the REA, of Youngsville. Damage to the car was estimated by police at $50, but residents of the area were without electricity for several hours.

At 11:50 p. m. Saturday, police were called out on another one car accident when a car operated by Harold Crowl, Sugar Grove RD 2, ran off the road at the intersection of Route 62 and the Kiantone Road and turned over. Damage to the car was estimated at $250. Crowl told police that he was blinded by oncoming car lights and missed the curve.

At 1:40 p. m. Sunday, police were called to North Warren where a car operated by Joseph Guifre, North Warren, struck two parked cars owned by Genevieve Hale, of Wilkinsburg, and Norman Lundahl, of North Warren. Damage to Guifre's car was estimated at $150, to Hale's car about $200, and to Lundahl's car about $40. Police are continuing their investigation.

Yesterday afternoon at 3:05 o'clock, cars operated by H. A. Rinard, of Warren, and Clyde J. Arthur, of Cleveland, Ohio, side-swiped on Route 62 at North Warren. Damage to Rinard was estimated at $50, and to the Ohio car about $200. Police said the accident occurred when Mr. Rinard attempted a left turn into a service station.

2,000 Enjoy State Hospital Field Day

Warren state hospital at North Warren staged its largest annual field days Friday afternoon as nearly 2,000 patients sat on the bleachers to watch the events. Many took part in the novelty races and tugs of war. The Warren High School band opened the program and the hospital band composed of patients also played. It was directed by Lloyd Van Tassel of Warren. The occupational therapy department and supervisory staff helped arrange the events with Joseph Gardner in charge. Field day at the hospital is for the entertainment of the patients so there were few visitors. Supervising the outdoor group were 120 employees and 50 affiliated nurses.

Local F. F. A. Boys Place Well at State

Fourteen F. F. A. boys from Warren and Forest counties were among the 163 boys representing 314 F. F. A. chapters throughout the state, who competed in activities during the three days in State College last week.

The local boys judged dairy cattle, livestock and poultry, and participated in educational demonstrations and recreational activities.

Jack Williams, representing the Tionesta Chapter, placed 18th among 437 livestock contestants and was awarded a Silver medal for his achievement. David March represented Sugar Grove-Farmington F. F. A. chapter in judging dairy cattle. Approximately 500 F. F. A. boys competed in judging dairy cattle. David placed 19th and will be recalled to state college in August to compete with the 40 "high" boys to decide the representatives for two national contests.

NOW REALISTIC CAN TRAINING GET?—With a nerve-splitting roar, this charge of TNT cascades mud and water over "Keystone" soldiers as they advance through a mock village at Camp Atterbury, Indiana. Part of their training on the battle indoctrination courses, which give them the "feel" of actual combat, the village trains men of the 28th Infantry Division in the skilled job of house-to-house fighting.

Hal Boyle's Comment

BY HAL BOYLE
New York. (AP)—The problem of today seems to be to see what the high school boys in the back of the classroom are having—heroin or algebra?
The question is being explored in a state inquiry into student dope peddling in the schools here. The inquiry has put back on trial my favorite hero of our times—the teen ager. Well, is he a little saint or a young monster? Many people across America will take the inquiry as evidence in support of their belief he is a brash brat, afflicted with vices unknown to his elders when they were young.
The situation admittedly is shocking. The city school superintendent has said he would accept police estimates that 1,500 high school students here are possible users of narcotics.
But there are 300,000 students here. That means only one out of 200 has puffed the marijuana cigarette or sniffed heroin. The other 199 appear to be able to suffer algebra without the aid of a hypodermic needle.
None of the reported 1,500 young victims is accused of inventing heroin or importing it. They got it from grownup peddlers—former teen agers themselves presumably—and they were inducted into addiction by these grownups. If the police had rounded up these grownups earlier, they wouldn't be the present problem among the young.

Recently I wrote a defense of the teen ager. It brought a lot of mail, pro and con. Today I'd like to present a defense of my defense of the teen ager, still the best kid in history.
Typical of those objecting to my contention that the teen ager now is no worse than the flapper and cake-eater of a generation ago is Bernard Gregory Stone of Fitchburg, Mass.
"Anyone who claims that present generation is no worse than the past one is simply myopic or too young to remember the superior type of teen ager of my day," he wrote. "The high school kid, when classes are dismissed for the day, immediately dashes to a tavern with his girl friend, an unheard-of thing in my day."
"This present generation of teen agers are the product of pleasure-loving parents of mediocre education who spend the greater part of their time outside of the home, people who have shirked their responsibilities.

COMMITTEE MEETING
There will be a meeting of the committee of Boy Scout Troop 6, of St. Joseph's church, in the Troop rooms at nine o'clock this evening, and officers in charge remind that it is important that all attend.

NEW PIPE LINE
Work has been started by the Pennsylvania Gas Company on laying a new transmission line between the Tennessee Gas Company's line north of Corry and the utility's main line at Phillipsville. Employees of the Hartford Company of Emporium are working in the Carter Hill district, trenching a ditch into which the all welded 12-inch pipe will be laid.

TO SELL TRACT
Members of the annual Methodist Church Conference at Meadville voted to sell a tract of land on Chautauqua Lake which had been purchased a few years ago for the purpose of creating an educational center. This action apparently lends some credence to reports that trustees are seriously considering the purchase of Brooks Rocks east of Corry on which to build the center. Cost of the purchase of the new tract of land is not to exceed $12,000.

LIST POSTING DELAYED
Telegraphic notification was received Friday by Director William J. Collins of the Erie District Office of Price Stabilization that the date for posting official OPS retail beef price ceiling lists has been changed from June 18 to June 25. The extension results from delays in printing the official posters. Immediately upon receipt of the official lists, they will be mailed from the Erie office to individual markets for posting by June 25th.

GASOLINE PRICE WAR
A side skirmish of the nationwide price-cutting war has been raging in Crawford county for four months, but only in one commodity—gasoline. Price cuts in the motor fuel were made first in Conneaut Lake about February and now have spread east and west until most stations between Hartstown and the top of Curry Hill, near Meadville, are selling gas at premium rates as much as four cents under the list price. An estimated 20 to 25 gasoline dealers along Route 322, Route 18, in Conneaut Lake Park are involved.

STRIKE GAS
According to the Corry Journal gas rushed out of the new well being put down on Carter Hill by the Pennsylvania Gas Company last night but officials of the utility last week stated the flow of fuel is not in marketable quantities. At the same time they pointed out that gas had been encountered in the first well at 4,100 feet, the depth which has been reached in the latest drilling. Drilling was being continued today with utility officials saying they plan to send the tools down to a depth of 4,500 to 4,550 feet in the hope of striking natural gas in marketable quantities. Since the drilling is now going much slower because of the extreme depth and because pipe must be placed in the well, the maximum depth is not expected to be reached for another two or three weeks.

The U. S. Army, 176 years old, is the oldest of the U. S. armed services.

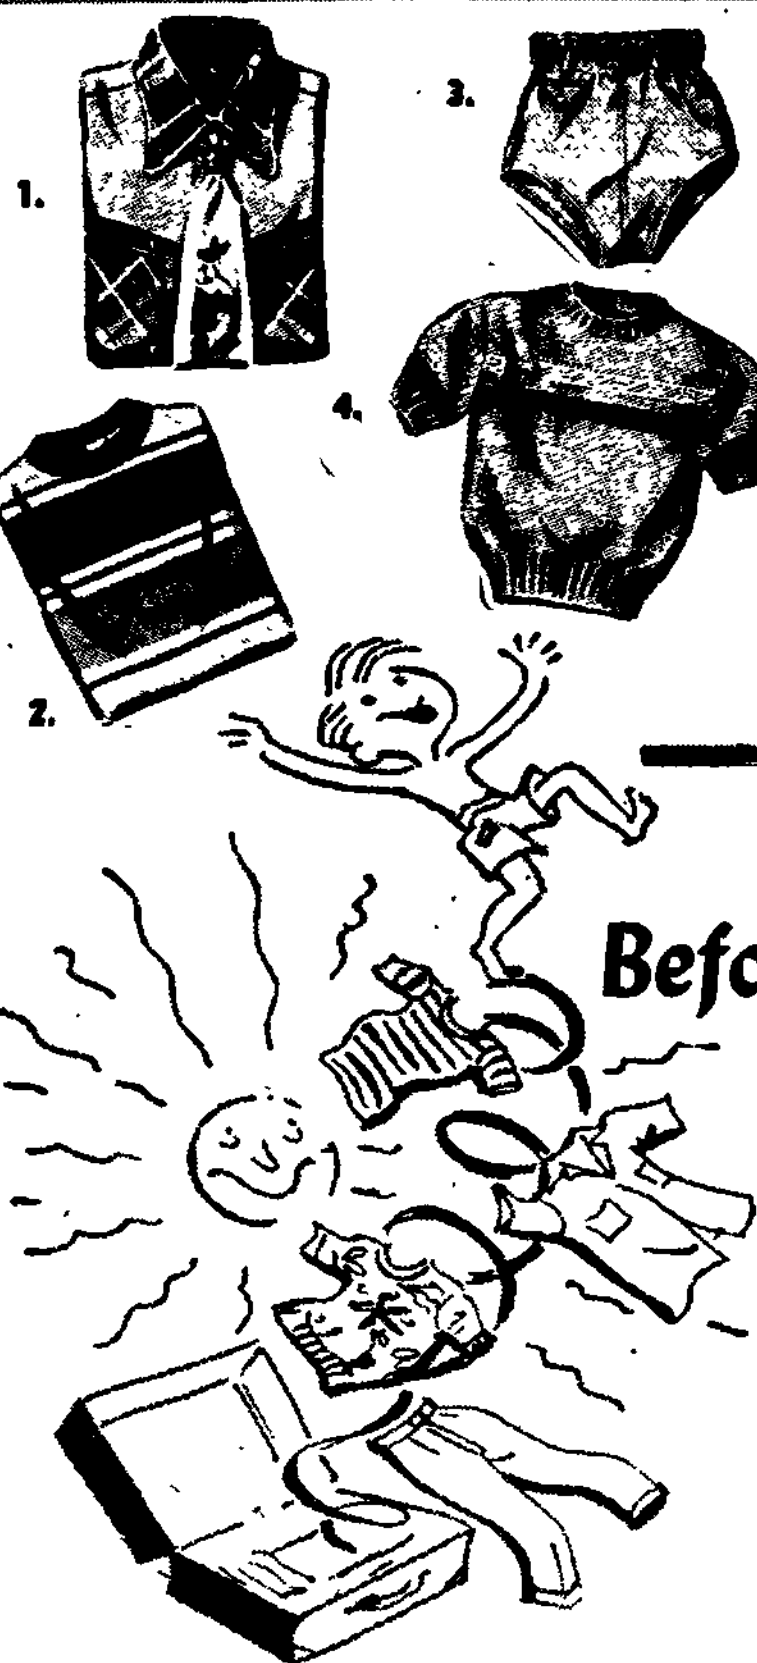

They have shown no interest in their children, but have permitted them to grow up like wild animals, ill-mannered, uncouth and lacking judgment commensurate with their age.

Let's hear from a teen ager—seventeen-year-old Ruth Elinor Howell of Marysville, Wash.:
"When I hear people bemoaning the state of today's youth," she wrote, "I always wonder if they have thought just who made us what we are. Who promotes all the things to tempt teen agers? Not us—it's the adults."
"I for one have never known a day when our world was not in strife, either major or minor. We teen agers aren't allowed to criticize the adults of today for their poor management. Yet we are expected to save the country from disaster by giving our lives in warfare."
"If we had our way, there wouldn't be any warfare unless the adults did the fighting. It isn't fair for adults to start a war and expect youth to fight and win it." The defense rests.

PENNSYLVANIA FARM ROUND-UP

BY BILL LOFTUS
Harrisburg. (AP)—The U. S. Department of Agriculture has opened a drive on two fronts to increase the farmer's participation in the national defense effort.
The opening moves in the campaign were made recently by department officials in speeches before farm editors and farm groups.
Harold K. Hill, deputy administrator of the production and marketing administration called for "better understanding by all groups of the problems and contributions of other groups."
"Neither agriculture nor business nor labor can be expected to bear controls alone or unfairly," Hill told farm editors. "Cooperation in helping the rest of the nation to reach accurate and reasoned judgments about agriculture's position is needed."
Hill said the department's position from the beginning has been "the best attack on inflation and aiding the defense effort is a large production."
"Prices must be high enough to encourage production," he added, "but low enough to keep the economy stable."
Clyde A. Zehner, chairman of the production and marketing committee, asked farmers in another speech to increase participation in the agricultural conservation program.
Those who participate, he said, are "partners with the rest of the population for building more productive land and for making more effective use of water."
"The fact that farmers are able today to produce between 30 and 40 per cent more than before World War two is one of the dividends of the nation's participation in the conservation program," Zehner said.

The PMA chairman termed the program "a national investment to insure the security of the country's food and fiber supply."
Four Pennsylvania farm youths went to Washington this week as delegates to the national 4-H camp conducted until June 20.
They are Joseph Hartle, Jr., 19, of Bellefonte, Centre county; Esther Faye Clossen, 20, Bloomsburg, Columbia county; Earl Yorkes, Jr., 19, Pipersville, Bucks county; and Idalee Wells, Belle Vernon, Westmoreland county.
The group was selected by the state club headed by President

Allen L. Baker, Pennsylvania State College.
State farmers are reminded haying season is here and with it comes the increase in farm accidents.
Suggestions forwarded by state and federal agricultural agents include:
Check equipment before starting operations.
Take special precautions to prevent falls from hay racks and hay stacks. Make sure loft floors are in good repair and hay chutes guarded.

Avoid making sudden and jolting starts and stops while loading, especially on rough ground.
The first U. S. Army was composed of 10 companies—six from Pennsylvania and two each from Virginia and Maryland.

JAPS GET LESSON IN DEMOCRACY

Even among those who approved General MacArthur's dismissal in April, there was widespread regret that the action removed from Japan the man who had so ably administered the occupation there.

Correspondents on the scene contributed to the general concern by voicing fears that the Japanese might react badly to the event. Some foresaw a deterioration in the situation that would wipe out some of the excellent progress Japan had made under MacArthur.

As Bruce Blossat, NEA editorial writer, points out, actually, no dire results have ensued. That a calamity has not occurred does not, however, cast doubt on the judgment of those who measured MacArthur's administration so highly.

It is simply a reflection of the endlessly-demonstrated fact that in a working democracy like America's, no man is indispensable nor need be regarded as such.

General Ridgway, his talents as a field commander already well proved, is now displaying the special abilities required for an occupation administrator, as did MacArthur before him, and General Clay in Berlin.

This is not to say he has the same specific qualities, or that he sees the job in quite the same light. There are significant differences between his personality and MacArthur's, and inevitably their approach is different.

The important thing is not to make comparisons in an effort to determine whose administration is "best." For Americans, the exciting fact is that a man of MacArthur's stature can be supplanted without damaging the nation's prestige or reducing the effectiveness of its policies.

We can be gratified that in some fields, at least, we appear to have an ample reservoir of leadership and can thus give continuity to our affairs.

But probably the greatest benefit from Ridgway's excellent follow-up performance is the lesson it has given to the Japanese. There had been in their extreme regard for MacArthur something of the same worshipful attitude the Japs always had felt for their emperor.

To a nation being schooled by us in the ways of democracy, it was therefore valuable instruction to learn that leaders could be changed without upsetting matters. Rotation of leadership is inherent in our concept of democracy.

General Ridgway deserves our thanks, and the whole free world's, for demonstrating the human vitality of a nation living under liberty.

PRICE CEILINGS FOR SANTA CLAUS

Price ceilings for Santa Claus are stirring up a fuss in Washington these warm days, according to Norman Walker, feature writer for The Associated Press, in the capital, who says that while old Kris Kringle takes it easy at the North Pole, his agents, the manufacturers are arguing hotly with the Office of Price Stabilization.

Winging in the balance is the cost of skates for him and a doll for Mary next Yuletide.

OPS tells about it in a press release:

Up to now, toys have been under the general freeze, their prices fixed at last January's levels. OPS says that effective July 2, they must be priced by a different system. This will fix ceiling prices at about mid-1950 levels plus cost increases since then.

Santa and his agents prefer the freeze. Oddly enough, they protest that their ceiling prices actually would be forced up by the new system. Moreover, they say they've already shipped half their toys for next Christmas, and changing pricing methods now would spell confusion.

OPS scoffs at these arguments. It tells the toy-makers that some of their number disregarded President Truman's request to keep prices down prior to last January, and that their price boosting gave them a "tremendous advantage" over competitors when the freeze went on. The new system will iron out such inequities, forcing some big manufacturers to reduce prices, OPS contended.

The agency declared it would stand firm.

So if Santa wants to stay under the freeze, he'd better hop down from the North Pole and apply some heat.

Here And There

Fifty years ago today the John Robinson "ten big shows all united" pitched tents on the south side grounds "near the Warren General Hospital," drawing considerable favorable publicity in an article that appeared in the Evening Times, part of which says: "And the circus has come to town. The unusual scenes attendant upon 'Circus Day' have been enacted, the parade has been pulled off, a performance has been given and tomorrow the great show will have passed into history, and Kane. The show arrived in a heavy special train at an early hour this morning, and was greeted in Warren yards by the usual contingent of small boys anxious to carry the elephant's trunk, or stretch the camel's neck. The tents were pitched on the old Fair Grounds, and in close proximity to Emergency Hospital from which the patients who were able to sit at the windows enjoyed the novel view. The John Robinson shows have been coming to Warren for several years and always attract a large crowd from the surrounding country and suburbs. Today was no exception and by the time the parade left the grounds at ten o'clock the streets were filled with people. The parade was excellent, the horses many and fine. The same description fits the ladies of the cast. There was music galore, good bands, drum corps, clowns and all the usual paraphernalia. The afternoon performance was a succession of wonderful surprises in the way of gymnastic and optical novelties. By far the feature of the performance 'is' the beautiful spectacle of the temple of Solomon in which is depicted his meeting with the Queen of Sheba, and incidentally including characteristic oriental scenes of pomp and entertainment. The menstros and lengthy ballet of the Egyptian ballet girls, is truly delightful and must have required weeks of practice to bring it to its present state of perfection."

★ WASHINGTON COLUMN ★
There's a New Lineup in the Office of Defense Mobilization
BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—There's a completely revamped first team lineup in the Office of Defense Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson.
Some of the more controversial characters, who were accused of being too closely connected with "the interests" are gone. Among those departed are Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who has gone back to his job with Continental Can; Sidney J. Weinberg, who has gone back to his investment business in New York as senior partner of Goldman Sachs; Fred Searies, Jr., who has gone back to his regular job as president of Newmont Mining, a holding company for many mine properties.
Now occupying Sidney Weinberg's office is Charles B. Stauffer. He is on loan from Bureau of the Budget, where he has been executive assistant director—the third ranking man.
Mr. Stauffer's principal job in ODM is to ride herd on Defense Production Administration and the other emergency agencies. He has a reputation as something of an expert on organization. During the war he served in the Navy, in the offices of the Chief of Naval Operations and commander of the Western Sea Frontier. He holds degrees from Pomona, American and Harvard and first entered government service from Brookings Institution in 1941.
Mr. Stauffer's principal job in ODM is to ride herd on Defense Production Administration and the other emergency agencies. He has a reputation as something of an expert on organization. During the war he served in the Navy, in the offices of the Chief of Naval Operations and commander of the Western Sea Frontier. He holds degrees from Pomona, American and Harvard and first entered government service from Brookings Institution in 1941.

TAKING over General Clay's former responsibilities in stimulating production is General P. Bedford, executive vice president of Kaiser-Frazer. He has been with Henry Kaiser since 1925 and is rated as one of the country's best production geniuses.
A native of Texas, Bedford was transportation superintendent for the six companies that built Hoover Dam, then general superintendent at Bonneville and Coulee. In 1941 he was switched to building ships. As head of Kaiser's Richmond, Calif., yards, he supervised the building of 729 ships. The Richmond yard record was the assembly of one Liberty ship in four days, 15½ hours.
In charge of metals and materials supply, succeeding Fred Searies, is a newcomer to government, but another experienced engineer and businessman. He is David E. Irwin of Chicago. He retired in 1950 from the position of vice president in charge of transportation and supplies for Pure Oil. He had been with this company since 1933.

FIVE other top jobs in the government's defense planning agency remain unchanged. Herbert A. Bergson, former assistant attorney general, is ODM's general counsel. Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, former civil service commissioner and president of Ohio Wesleyan, is director of manpower. Raymond G. Fisher, director of programs, is a Rockefeller Foundation man, formerly with the Marshall Plan organization.
A. E. Howse, watchdog on the stabilization program for Mr. Wilson, is a Wichita, Kan., businessman. He is credited with setting up the V-Joan program. J. Murray Mitchell, Wilson's staff assistant, is a vice president of New York Trust Co. He served in both World Wars and in Belgium for the Marshall Plan.
Biggest change in Mobilization Boss Wilson's organization comes with the arrival of George M. Harrison as labor adviser. Mr. Harrison is president of Railway Mail Clerks and a vice president of AFL. It was union labor leaders who raised the most fuss because Mr. Wilson had too many big businessmen on his staff.

Ever since February, he had been begging the unions to name one of their top officials to come in and take a job. At the end of April, the United Labor Policy Committee picked Harrison and Wilson appointed him at once.

An office was fitted up for him and the red carpet rolled out. But after all the hullabaloo about "giving the unions a voice in defense policy planning" and the union leaders' protest walkout last winter, it has taken five weeks for Mr. Harrison to report for work. Just what he is to do to save the country, nobody yet knows and he has yet to show.

MRS. JAMES E. SMITH

Baskets of white glads and pom-poms decorated the Methodist church at Youngsville at high noon Thursday, June 14, when the Rev. E. W. Chitester read the double ring service uniting in marriage Elizabeth Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall W. Myers, Sr., Youngsville, and James E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith, Olean, N. Y.

Familiar bridal airs were chosen by Miss Edith Husted for her half-hour recital, with the traditional processional and recessional.

The bride's gown of white nylon and Chantilly lace was styled with high, round neckline with the bouquet of dark pink carnations and white mums. The flower girl was Kathy Smith, another sister of the bridegroom, wearing blue taffeta trimmed with pink velvet. Her miniature bouquet matched the other attendants' and her headband was of the same flowers.

David Smith, Olean, served his brother as best man and ushers were his uncles, Glen Simms, Olean, and Lester Smith, Cuba, N. Y.

Mrs. Myers chose a black and orchid sheer print, black and white accessories and white gardenias, while Mrs. Smith wore a white and green print, with black accessories and red roses.

The reception followed at the National Forge clubhouse, Irvine, with luncheon served from buffet tables done in red roses, mock orange blossoms and white tapers. Mrs. Judith Myers, great-aunt of the bride, poured, assisted by Mrs. Amanda Jines, while an aunt, Mrs. Edna Sechrist, served the three-tier cake.

Guests included Charles J. Newark, P.O. USS Montague, stationed in San Diego, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Simms, Mrs. Anna Forsberg, Mrs. James Reilly, Mrs. Herman Boser, Mrs. Maude Simms, Olean; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Smith, Cuba; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith, Allegheny, N. Y.; and other guests from Warren and Youngsville.

After a short Canadian honeymoon, the couple will leave for New York City, from where Mrs. Smith will go to Coca Cola, Panama Canal one, and an apartment at the Naval Air Station. Mr. Smith, flight engineer in the Air Force, will report to Norfolk to fly back to his base.

The bride was graduated from Youngsville High School in 1944 and has been employed by the New Process Company. Girls of the correspondence department there honored her with a pre-nuptial shower.

The bridegroom, graduate of Hinsdale, N. Y., High School, has had three years of service in the U. S. Navy and graduated from the naval school for aviation motor machinists.

Joan Massa Bride Of Pfc. Gustafson In Air Base Chapel

The Catholic chapel at Sandia Air Base, Albuquerque, N. M., was the scene of a simple wedding at 5 p. m. Sunday, June 3, when Father Hugh F. Kennedy united in marriage two well-known young people of Warren, Joan Massa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Massa, 825 Fourth avenue, and Pfc. Edward Gustafson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Gustafson, 915 Stone avenue.

The bride chose a ballerina gown of net over white satin, with lilies of the valley scattered over the netting, and a satin Juliet cap held her fingertip veil. Lilies of the valley topped the white prayer book which she carried.

Mary Trujillo, Albuquerque, was her only attendant. She wore beige lace with white accessories and carried white carnations.

Pfc. Gilbert Lombard, also stationed at the air base, served Pfc. Gustafson as best man.

The mother of the bride was attired in a white suit, with which she wore olive green accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception for 40 guests followed at six o'clock at the Coronada Club, those present including Lt. and Mrs. Edgar Everhard, S/Sgt. Mont Leon, Una Mae, Claussen, Pfc. William Carruthers, Edsell Obersheim, Pat Williams, David Thomas, T. A. Williams, Louis Figley, all from the air base.

For the present, the bride will reside at home, since her husband is leaving for service with the Air Force in England. Both young people were members of the 1951 graduating class of Warren High School.

Entertaining for the bride were her aunts, Mrs. Laura D'Angelo, Mrs. Jennie Clark, Mrs. Helen Massa, Mrs. Josephine Papalardo, Mrs. Prudence Cosmano and Mrs. Ruby Massa, who gave a personal shower. Guests were Mrs. Samuel Massa, Delores Massa, Maryann Massa, Laura Cosmano, Mrs. Dan Sasso, Mrs. Frank Cosmano and Mrs. Marie Coppola.

Seeking 'Perfect Home' Is a Wild Goose Chase

"In America Nothing Is Ever Good Enough," a home decorating magazine reminds its women readers. The article itself and the photographs illustrating it point up all the changes one family has made in their home during the past five years.

Says the magazine: "We have never encountered a more dramatic example of the speed with which the best turns obsolete. . . . Only five years ago we analyzed this house down to its last light switch and hailed it as a perfect fit for its occupants."

Is life fact that a "perfect" house can be outgrown and outmoded in five years something we ought to cheer about? Should we take pride in the fact that what we were happy with a few years ago is all wrong today?

Or should we maybe wake up to the fact that you can spend a lifetime trying to keep a house perfect by "present day" standards. You can spend so much time and energy and money and thought on the project that you never get a chance to settle back and enjoy the perfection. How can you, if you know that even as you relax in your perfect home it is with "dramatic speed" becoming obsolete.

NO "DRAMATIC SPEED" TO GRANDMA

When Grandma got herself a house and filled it with furniture she expected both to last a lifetime. In that house she expected to rear a family, receive the visits of her grandchildren, and grow old, still thinking it was a good house, and still prizing the furniture she bought as a young wife, as well as the family heirlooms that were handed down to her.

We don't have to be like Grandma, though it must have been a pretty comfortable feeling, at that. But we don't have to be so easily dissatisfied with the things we have, either.

That "nothing is ever good enough" attitude doesn't always mean progress. Sometimes it just means change—and change at too high a price.

Ask Papa. We'll bet any house he thought was "perfect" five years ago doesn't look obsolete to him. Because Papa foots the bills.

The Rev. E. K. Rogers performed the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with lilies, snapdragons, palms and mock orange blossoms. Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Jacobson, and Earl Erickson sang "O Promise Me." "Bless This House" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Joe Casey, wearing yellow organdy with hat and mitts to match and carrying a colonial bouquet of aqua Esther Reed daisies. Misses Autumn and Louise Strong, of Jamestown, N. Y., were the bridesmaids and were gowned in green organdy with matching hats and mitts. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow daisies.

Little Judy Anderson was flower girl for her cousin, wearing yellow organdy. She carried a basket of mixed flowers. Her little brother, Bobbie, was his cousin's ring bearer.

Groomsmen were his cousin, Elmer Dutches, best man, with Joe Casey, Donald Weaver and Ardell Drayer, ushers.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in white slipper satin, styled with a square neckline embroidered in seed pearls, fitted bodice, long sleeves and full skirt. Her finger tip veil fell from a heart shaped halo, and she carried a colonial bouquet of orange blossoms and white Esther Reed daisies. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Nelson chose a navy sheer dress with blue accessories for her daughter's wedding, and the bride-

Fifth Annual Dance Recital Is Enjoyed By a Large and Enthusiastic Audience

From the opening "Invitation to the Dance" by Jane Duffield, Shannon Madigan and Rose Marie Combert, to the tragic end of "Swan Lake", students of the Rapp Dance Studio gave the large and enthusiastic audience at the Woman's Club auditorium a brilliant and skillful performance—the fifth annual recital.

High place for beauty and charm went to tiny ballerinas in the classic tutu of pale blue sparkle-satin with heart-shaped halos: Patricia Lowe, Susan Punskey, Harriette Berenfeld, Darla Chilli, Susan Johnson, Pamela Sheldon, Penelope Morgan, Sara Krimmel, Sharon O'Leary, Jerry Summers, Kaye Jenkins, Judy Kintner and Mary K. Fago.

Circus acrobats might learn a trick from pre-school Diane Jones, Bonnie Trzcinski, Sheila Dunn and Linda Ahlgren, in glittery costumes of jewel cloth with crown and cape. Richard Rapp, director, put them through applause-winning paces for skill and daring.

Having a wonderful time doing "Polka in the Parlor", Doris and Edwina Anderson in fluffy red-and-white frocks, and Helene McClure and Elsie Rapp, as boys in blue suits, looked like two pairs of twins instead of one, doing many dance steps smoothly together—as one.

Strength Shown by De Gaulle's Party

Paris, June 18—(AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's new party appeared on the way today to being the strongest single political unit in France's new national assembly, but the middle of the road parties seem to be retaining control of the next parliament.

With three quarters of the vote in yesterday's national elections tabulated, De Gaulle's Rally of the French People (RPF) had won 107 assembly seats and had run up an impressive total of 3,137,599 votes of the 15,000,000 counted up to noon in unofficial tabulations.

In terms of popular vote the Communists still were in front, but the RPF party was losing many seats. At the three quarter mark the Communists had 96 seats and seemed on the way to losing as many as 60 of the seats they held in the old parliament. But in popular vote the Communists were out in front as a single party, with 3,844,729, or 25.76 per cent of the 15,000,000 votes counted up to noon. This was a little behind their popular vote showing in the last election in 1946, when their vote was 28.6 per cent of the total.

Despite De Gaulle's strong showing in this election, watched throughout the world as one aspect of the east-west war of ideas, his party did not appear to be running up the total in assembly seats which he had expected.

The center parties whose coalition ruled the nation since 1946, to the exclusion both of the De Gaulles and the Communists, had a better than even chance of keeping that control in parliament in a similar combine.

months. Thirty-three Sabre jets battled with 40 MiGs from 28,000 feet down to tree top level.

Sunday's air fight was between 20 American jets and 25 Reds. One Mig was reported shot down and six damaged.

Both battles were fought near the Manchurian border in Mig alley—site of all previous jet engagements.

The ground war moved over familiar territory, but stirred up strong Red resistance in unexpected spots. In the center five Allied patrols were turned back by strong Red fire. Communists moved artillery into the "Iron Triangle" where none was encountered recently.

Only gains reported Sunday were in the east where front dispatches said Allies captured key heights on a push toward a "strategic assembly area."

The United Nations shoved a powerful task force across the Im-jin river in the west, probing a reported Communist buildup area.

Weird War Story Comes From Poland

Warsaw, Poland, June 18—(AP)—The weird story of a German soldier buried alive for six years unfolded today.

Reliable sources said the soldier, identified only as a 32-year-old Berliner, is in a hospital being treated for blindness which resulted from entombment since 1945 in a sealed off Wehrmacht underground food warehouse.

Authorities concerned with the case were reluctant to talk, but trustworthy informants gave the following account:

The buried man emerged from his trap near the seaport of Gdynia recently with a knee-length beard and hair hanging down to his ankles. Frightened Poles ran when they saw him. Another German who had also been buried dead of a heart attack when he came into daylight.

The two, with four comrades, had been trapped in the food bunker when retreating Germans dynamited the entrance to prevent advancing Russians from entering.

THE MARKETS

New York, June 18—(AP)—Prices turned mixed today in the stock market after an early rising tendency faded away. There was scattered backwardness in some major sections, and this was enough to take the edge off the slight forward movement. Price peaks stood out, however, in oils, chemicals, rubbers, and non-ferrous mining issues. Madison Square Garden jumped up a full point in early trading at 8 1/2. The advance was ascribed to the box office success of the experiment in piping the televised performance of a heavyweight boxing bout to theaters in six cities. Standard Oil (NJ) stood out in the oil division with a higher price and active trading. In chemicals the best gains were made by American Cyanamid and Dow Chemical.

SHARP CUT IN CIVIL DEFENSE FUND SEEN

Harrisburg, June 18—(AP)—A sharp cut was in prospect today for Pennsylvania's proposed $20,000,000 civil defense fund.

The defense fund figure came under strong attack during a week-end meeting here of senate Republicans seeking to resolve differences on state finances.

Sen. George N. Wade (R-Cum-berland) expressed doubt that the full amount requested was necessary for adequate defense purposes. Sen. John M. Walker expressed similar sentiments.

Lovely Perennials Easy as Radishes to Grow

Every amateur gardener has within his reach hundreds of beautiful perennial flowers, with which he can plant a border which will bloom every year from spring to winter with a minimum of care. Such a border will distinguish any home grounds, and especially the small place, since small gardens excel in charm. If started now by sowing a few packets of perennial seed, in a spaded up plot of a few hundred square feet, your perennial border can be in full bloom next year.

The only plants you will have to buy, to provide a complete "succession of bloom" from May to October, are iris, peonies and chrysanthemums. The iris and peonies should be set out in August, the chrysanthemums next spring. But right away, you should sow seeds of these perennials:

Coreopsis, columbine, delphinium, Newport pink sweet william, galliardia, double hollyhocks, linum perenne blue, pyrethrum, shasta daisies, dianthus plumarius, gremadin carnations, and anemone.

There are dozens of others which you can grow, but these will make a good start, and you will want to add a few each year. Sow the seed in rows, just like vegetables. Cover the seed with porous soil, in which a third sharp sand and a third humus have been mixed with soil. Keep the seed bed moist until they germinate.

Early spring weather is as good for perennials as for vegetables, and they will all grow vigorously in the cool weather. By July they may begin to crowd, and can be thinned out, the plants that are removed being set out in new rows where they have room to grow. Water these plants as you do the vegetable garden and fertilize them the same way. The same insecticides should be used if insects bother them, which is rarely the case.

By fall you will have hundreds of vigorous plants, heavily rooted, for a fraction of the amount they would cost in the market. In early October they should be moved to the border, artistically arranged, and the following summer you will enjoy their full beauty.

The experience you gain in growing your own plants will equip you to care for them and add to them, and your enjoyment will be all the greater, because you will have them.

PONY LEAGUE
The Hornell Dodgers made a strong bid for leadership in the Class D Pony League by winning three games over the weekend, but they couldn't overtake the Jamestown Falcons.

The Dodgers won two from Corning yesterday, 7-2 and 7-5, after edging out the Falcons, 7-6, in Saturday's game. But the Jamestown team clung to a percentage lead with .684 to Hornell's .674. The three wins put Hornell a half ahead in the games column.

The Falcons spoiled the Dodgers' chances yesterday by winning over Wellsville, 11-4, pounding out 12 hits off three Wellsville pitchers. Olean kept its third place gait by winning from Bradford, 13-2, yesterday, and dumping Hamilton, 12-9, on Saturday.

Fourth-place Batavia won two in weekend play. The Clippers beat Bradford, 13-3, Saturday, and came back to hand the Hamilton Cardinals a 5-0 shutout yesterday.

It was a bad weekend for the cellar team from Corning. Besides yesterday's double loss to Hornell, the Corning squad dropped a pair to Wellsville Saturday, 4-3, and 7-0.

Jamestown Speed King Thrills Big Crowd at Dicky-Ben

Carl Pintagro, the Jamestown, N. Y., speed king, raced to a thrilling triumph in the feature 20 lap stock car race at the Dicky Ben speedway on Sunday afternoon. Pintagro nosed out Bob Rumbaugh, of Corry, by a scant five yard margin after almost losing the lead with one lap to go.

Pintagro took the lead on the eighth lap and clung to top spot for the remaining 12 laps. Rumbaugh went into the second spot on the 10th lap and stayed within a 10 yard distance of whirling Carl. Bob Allen after taking an early lead, faltered and finished third. Jim Patrick of Erie was fourth. Art Robbins, of Erie, fifth, and Eddie Norris of Warren, sixth. A field of 15 cars went to the post in the feature.

Winners of the heats were Rumbaugh, Pintagro, and Freddie Lehman of Erie. The semi-final winners were Eddie Shaw of Jamestown and Jim Patrick of Erie.

In the consolation race, a field of ten cars went to the starting line and saw Eddie Norris make his first start of the year a successful one. Norris, one of the top drivers in the country was almost knocked out of the running when his car went berserk in warming up. Borland ran second and Chivari, third.

The largest field of the year, 27 fleet stock cars, were on hand when starter Shorty Pierce dropped the green flag for the first race.

OUTDOORS

Game Protector Carl E. Benson, Tionesta, comes up with a new muskrat damage angle. He says: "The Tionesta Fish Hatchery complained that muskrats ate bullheads there. In the winter months, when the ponds are frozen over the rats work under the ice, where the bullheads lie dormant."

"The little fur-bearers eat all but the heads of these fish. There were many bullheads so killed at this hatchery. They were usually taken to the shore before being eaten. Employees trapped 15 muskrats and one mink in March. The rats were as fat then as they normally are in fall."

The mower is one of the leading causes of pheasant mortality in the commonwealth. Farmers usually cut their alfalfa, timothy and clover crops about the time broody pheasant hens incubate their eggs, or while the tiny chicks are being mothered in the nest. At such times the female is slow to flush, and the cutting bar ends her life. Following her death, the dependent chicks perish, or the clutch of eggs is lost. Even when the hen is not on the nest at the time the hay that conceals it is cut, the exposed eggs or chicks become visible to winged predators and are soon destroyed.

In an effort to reduce mowing mortality, the Game Commission sponsors a project by which farmers are paid $1.00 apiece for each island of cover left around nests containing pheasant or quail eggs or chicks during the first mowing of alfalfa, clover or timothy hay. When an owner or lessee wishes payment for such unharvested cover, he must notify his District Game Protector. When inspection of such an area has been made, the game officer will certify that the $1.00 per island payment shall be made to the owner or lessee of the land on which the protective cover is left.

A humane conservation practice, long employed by many farmers or their children, has been to locate and mark nests prior to mowing time, so that the machine operator would know the areas to be skipped.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

THIS 'EXTRA' HAND IS EXTRA SPECIAL

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

One of the features of the bridge season in recent years has been the big rubber bridge tournament held for the benefit of the Children's Memorial Cancer Fund. Thousands of dollars are raised each year for this worthy charity, giving New York bridge players and chairman Leo Leventritt good reason for a glow of pride.

One of the most exciting hands in this year's tournament came on an "extra" hand. Both sides were tied at the end of the normal eight hands, and one additional hand was dealt out as a play-off. The round would be won by whichever side got a plus score on this one hand.

The bidding was highly competitive, but also very tense. Neither side could afford to get stuck with a contract that could be set.

South finally became declarer at four spades, after much agonized indecision about whether or not to let the opponents try to make four hearts. West might have made the contract, but it would have been a very close struggle.

West opened the nine of clubs against four spades, East covered with the ten, and South won with the ace. South then proceeded to run off all of his seven spades. This created great problems for the defenders.

West's first discard was the jack of hearts, showing the nature of his holding in the suit.

As soon as East failed to follow on the fourth round of trumps, each defender could count declarer's trump suit. It was apparent that he could win seven trumps, the ace of clubs, and dummy's ace of diamonds. The defense had to make sure that no tenth trick developed.

When South led his last trump, West came down to two diamonds and three hearts, while dummy reduced to three diamonds and two clubs. East could save only five cards and had to choose the right ones. With a discard still to be made, East held two hearts, two diamonds and two clubs.

The East player happened to be my friend Fred Sheinwald, so the right decision was made—but only after much head shaking and muttering. He discarded the queen of clubs.

When declarer then led a club, Sheinwald took the king while his partner discarded a diamond. Now three hearts could be run to defeat the contract.

Note that if Sheinwald had discarded a diamond, South could have led the queen of diamonds to produce the vital tenth trick. If East had discarded a low heart, he could have been put in with a heart or a club to lead diamonds at the Graduate Degree For Warren Boy at Hawaii University

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Langhans, Alexander street, have received word from their son, Edward, that he received the degree of master of arts at the University of Hawaii on Wednesday, June 13.

This graduate degree was gained after two years of work in the Department of the Drama and Theatre, where Edward supervised the design and construction of settings for the University of Hawaii's six major play productions each year.

Previously, Mr. Langhans received a master's degree in English Literature at the University of Rochester. These two degrees have been preparation for further graduate study leading to a degree of doctor of philosophy in History of the Theatre at Yale University, where Mr. Langhans will begin work in September.

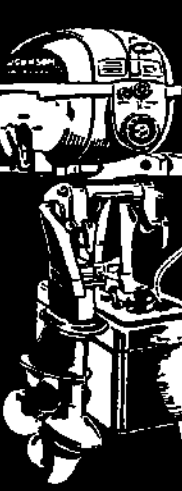

Edward's graduate studies at the University of Hawaii were recently concluded by a production of William Wycherley's 17th century comedy, "The Country Wife". This production, designed and directed by Langhans, was a portion of his master's thesis, the first production thesis to be granted by the university. Following the production, Mr. Langhans was elected to Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic honorary society.

Mr. and Mrs. Langhans will return to Warren for a short visit in September before going to Rochester to visit Mrs. Langhans' family and to New Haven, Conn., where they will reside.

Dr. Thompson's office will be closed from June 18th to July 9th. June 18-22

Today's Business Mirror
By SAM DAWSON

New York—(P)—If your wife is after you to refurbish a room or a house, keep an eye on Grand Rapids and Chicago next week.

Furniture makers unveil their fall lines then and they're worried because in recent months you haven't been buying as much new furniture as your wife—and the furniture manufacturers—think you should.

They hope their new designs will change your mind.

Prices at the markets next week are expected to be about the same level as those on the spring lines shown in the January markets. But there will be a wider selection in the lower-priced fields.

Designers have concentrated on eye-appeal this time to try to coax retailers to forget high inventories—the retailers bought over-enthusiastically in the January markets, when they feared a shortage might develop, particularly in hardware.

Some manufacturers insist stoutly that fall will see a pick-up in sales. An official of the American Furniture Mart in Chicago thinks 1951 will prove to be a 1949—an inventory recession in the spring months, but booming business in the fall.

But many manufacturers say frankly that this is unquestionably a buyers' market. And the National Retail Furniture Association says that at the end of May store inventories were 25 per cent higher than a year ago.

Many furniture makers have kept going close to capacity in recent weeks in spite of the falling off in new orders—backlogs were big enough to carry them through. The rub could come if the June markets don't produce orders for fall delivery.

The first three months of the year the industry had its best business on record, says Frank Seidman, accountant specializing in furniture company business. Business got pretty upstate after that, however, but Seidman predicts that shipments in the first half of the year should top the first six months of 1950 by 20 per cent, in dollar volume. Higher prices mean that unit shipments may not look so impressive.

Last year the industry produced $1.5 billion worth of wood furniture, a gain of 13 per cent over the previous year of 1948, and two and a half times as much as the prewar top year of 1941.

What's worrying the furniture makers most is the expected drop from now on in the number of new homes to be built. So far this year an estimated 444,500 new homes have been started, compared with 561,400 in the first five months of record-breaking 1950.

But from now on the government counts on its restrictions on easy mortgage terms, and curbs on use of some building materials, to cut the rate back sharply.

The government estimates that home starts for fall of 1951 will be between 800,000 and 850,000—a sharp drop from 1950's record 1,400,000.

Seidman thinks this won't hit the furniture industry until next year because of the usual time lag between starting a home and furnishing it. And he thinks that replacement demand might well fill much of the void when new homes become fewer.

Corpse on the Town
By JOHN ROEBURT

Chapter 13

THEY hurried along sidewalks as narrow as footpaths, carrying their coats. There was no wind and clouds of steam hung in the atmosphere. The sense of desolation was oppressive in this region where houses were spaced acres apart.

The low b-zzz of an automobile behind them grew louder. Jigger looked over his shoulder hopefully, his thumb up in a hitchhiker signal.

The car slowed its speed about fifty yards behind them, swung in to flank the footpath, then geared its speed to the walker's gait, stalking them. It was a town car with a high square tonneau. It had the look of a hearse.

The license plate was a simple M H.

Red swore, "Now what?" Jigger quickened his stride. "Keep walking," he ordered. They moved ahead in a rush, bumping each other. The town car held its distance.

"No good," Red gasped. "Stitch in my side."

Jigger stopped to let Red recover. The vehicle stopped too, waiting.

Jigger eyed the town car. What could be its result?

In the next minute, Jigger knew. A convertible raced toward them from the direction of town. Its brakes screamed, a door flung open, and a man squeezed free of the car.

Rumely—Police Chief Ben Rumely.

Hunter alighted, and Jigger scrutinized him, seeking a key to the sudden omen of climax. But Hunter's face was composed and unrevealing.

Rumely and Hunter went to each other, as if directed by a secret set of signals. They leaned closely, and there was a mumble of undertones. Soon, Hunter came up to Jigger.

"You entered my house under false pretenses. You misrepresented your motives; told me a pack of untruths."

"Did I?" Jigger said calmly. Hunter said, "Rumely, identify this man."

"He's a cabdriver who was caught riding a murdered woman around New York in a trunk. His name is Jigger Moran."

Jigger looked at Rumely significantly. "You—uh—didn't hurry back to Lewiston that day?"

Just the look of an amused cat; Rumely said nothing.

Hunter repeated, "Jigger Moran," with his brow furrowed intensely. Jigger stared at him, his own thoughts pushing. He had the sensation of being joined in Hunter's absorption.

Hunter said distantly, "I've heard the name somewhere."

Jigger started electrically. Something had clicked inside him, like a light switch snapped on in a dark corner of his brain.

"The name's been in the papers, Mr. Hunter," Rumely said. "You could have seen it there."

Hunter's face relaxed. "Escort these men to the depot and see that they leave town, Rumely."

Rumely moved in closer; one hand just a single movement away from the bulge of a shoulder holster. "Okay, fellows," he said languidly, "hop in for a free ride."

Red started for the convertible. Jigger grinned disarmingly under Rumely's steady gaze. He said, "Nice break for us, in this heat."

Rumely said nothing. Jigger moved to Rumely's side carelessly, heading for the convertible. Rumely twisted in a sudden caution, but too late.

THE blow crushed into the doughy mass of cheek; Rumely's hands were pawing blindly when the knee landed. His face was a sick, deathly green as Jigger bent over him and whisked the gun out of the shoulder holster.

A starter sounded. Jigger moved abreast of the town car, pointing the gun. Red reached in and shut off the motor. He was pale, like a bystander compromised by events.

Jigger ordered, "Get out, Hunter."

Hunter obeyed. The composure was gone again; his face was wild. "That was an unprovoked and brutal assault!"

"And life insurance, Hunter!"

"Rumely was only to escort you to the depot."

"With a lynching party planned to live up the ride." The thought sent shivers up Jigger's back. He lashed out savagely, and the concussion of metal on bone dropped Hunter.

Red looked terror-stricken. "Jigger, you're crazy. These guys are admission tickets to the State Pen!"

Jigger sailed the gun over a stone wall. "I don't think so, Red. You don't think so!"

"No. I think Hunter will think twice about formal reprisal when he comes to and reads a note I'm going to stick in his hand."

Red said blankly, "A note?"

Jigger said, "Drag our unconscious friends to one side, off the walk. Also immobilize the Hunter car. Take the rotor out." He smiled faintly. "We've met before, Hunter, and I. We met outside Lindy's Restaurant, one rainy night and rode down to 96 Charlton Street. Five minutes later, I was riding a corpse in a trunk into a police trap."

Red stared apprehensively at every new arrival in the railroad waiting room.

"Relax," Jigger smiled. "When we roll into Penn Station, not before." Red added anxiously, "Can't we get Hunter out of circulation, under lock and key?"

"On what grounds, Red?"

"Are you kidding! Fraud, conspiracy, murder!"

Jigger shook his head. "Even if we convinced ourselves, we've got a story we can't sell. There isn't a lick of supporting evidence."

"What about the statements from Aunt Penny, and from Willie?"

"Wouldn't stand up," Jigger grinned. "They'd both end up in padded cells."

"How about you placing Hunter at 96 Charlton Street, the night Anne Brown's body was loaded on your cab?"

"Who'd believe me? And how do I put Hunter inside the Anne Brown apartment?" Jigger shook his head. "Our belief that the just-killed Anne Brown is the long-dead Susan Hunter needs a lot of proving. There's a lot we don't know, a lot we've got to chase down."

"For instance?"

"Just how Hunter profited by his daughter's death, for one thing."

"That's just a job of research. Go to the Probate Court in the County Seat. Check through the will."

"Okay," Jigger looked at his skinny colleague slyly. "The County Seat's one local stop down the line. You can catch the very next train into Penn Station."
